This year's Labor Day Festival Features Parade, Pageant, Carnival

by Sandy Smith

The 1991 Greenbelt Labor Day Festival Parade promises to be the "biggest and best yet." So what else is new? But it's always true. Each year there seems to be more pizzazz and excitement in the Labor Day Parade, says Festival President Bobbi McCarthy. The Yankee Rebels American Band, headliners in previous festival parades, are back. This patriotic, attention-getting band performs an impressive show while playing some of the best marching music you will hear, according to Parade Chair Michael Donkis.

Donkis is also back, making this the third Greenbelt parade he and a group of volunteers have organized. His experience is not limited to Greenbelt; he was the organizing force behind Washington, D.C.'s Cherry Blossom parade and other major special events. He has been credited with bringing new groups to the Greenbelt parade, such as the popular Chinese dragon and dancers, who will be returning to the Labor Day parade this year.

Other groups scheduled to appear are the Emerald Society Irish Band, the Prince Georges Police Pipe Band, Dunloggin Irish Band, the Patriots Fife and Drum Corps, the Potomac River Jazz Club, Alta Kameraden German Band, and the Potomack Ancients. Parade watchers can also expect such new entries as the Bolivian dancers and military marching platoons, as well as Akita rescue dogs and decorated horses.

Local celebrities and politicians will also be present as in years past. Miss Greenbelt 1991 and her court and 1991's Little Miss Greenbelt and the Little Miss girls will be featured in the parade. Community groups from the Golden Agers to Tykes with Trikes and many others will be marching along. The 1991 Outstanding Citizen serves as the parade's Grand Marshal. Walt Starling, popular traffic reporter of W-Lite, will serve as parade announcer, along with Greenbelt's Bob Spears and Bobbi McCarthy.

Entertainment

From classic rock to country, from brass quintets to folk songs, from magic to mime, the Labor Day Festival offers continuous entertainment of every style and for every taste. Entertainment chair Mary Ann Baker is especially pleased with the talent and variety of this year's performers. She said, "Greenbelt's Labor Day Festival is well-known now to entertainers throughout the metropolitan area and we had an incredible choice of entertainers audition to be in our festival. We chose the best," she added.

Hearing in Annapolis Sept. 3 On New Redistricting Plan

by Elaine Skolnik

The Governor's Redistricting Advisory Committee last week approved a proposed plan for congressional districts in Maryland. A public hearing on the plan will be held on Tuesday, September 3 starting at 5 p.m. in the Joint Hearing Room of the Legislative Services Building, 90 State Circle, Annapolis.

The latest congressional redistricting plan creates a new base for Congressman Steny H. Hoyer, who has represented the Fifth Congressional District for a decade. The proposed Fifth District covers roughly 40 percent of the population of Prince Georges County (including Greenbelt), in addition to all of Charles, Calvert and St. Mary's counties and portions of Anne Arundel and Howard counties.

Politics

Still uncertain is how the merging of part of Prince Georges county with more rural and conservative counties in the same district will affect county interests.

The remaining portion of Prince Georges County and a slice of Montgomery County will create a proposed new District 2 which is approximately 59% black. According to the committee, the shift in population reported by the 1990 census can best be accommodated by establishing a new majority black district where a black candidate would have an opportunity of winning next year. New boundaries for the eight congressional districts will be implemented for the March 3, 1992 primaries.

Schedule

After the hearing, the Advisory Committee will finalize its recommendations for new congressional districts. Governor William Donald Schaefer will then review the plan and can offer modifications before it is presented to the General Assembly at a special session scheduled for September 25. Schaefer has veto power on any plan approved by lawmakers.

The committee has set up a toll free hotline, 1-800-688-7494, for citizens to sign up to testify at the September 3 hearing in Annapolis.

County Redistricting

In the meantime, the Prince Georges County Redistricting Committee will be submitting a plan to the county council in September for the redistricting of council districts. Final action must be taken by November 30.

The commission has conducted a series of meetings, one in each council district, concerning how district boundaries should be drawn.

Public Schools Open on Tuesday

by Robert Levine

Prince Georges County public schools will open on Tuesday, September 3. About 109,575 students are expected to enroll, an increase of about 1,000 over last year. This continues an upward trend which began with the introduction of the magnet schools in 1987. This year, the county will operate 171 schools; some 507 new teachers have been hired.

All magnet schools are full and have waiting lists. The magnet schools, which offer specialized programs, were instituted as a means of achieving racial integration. They are now filled by lottery. Students wishing to attend TAG schools had to pass an examination in order to qualify for the lottery. The Visual and Performing Arts High School in Suitland held auditions instead of examinations.

New Programs

Multicultural education will be stressed again this year. During the summer a conference was held for parents to inform them of the multicultural initiatives being implemented throughout the curriculum. Parents were also provided with methods of supporting and enhancing multicultural instruction at home.

The program has been set up to help students develop awareness, appreciation and understanding of the history, culture and contributions made by various groups within American society. The program has been instituted for kindergarten through twelfth grade and is used in English, math, science, social studies, art and music.

Another new program, Equity 2000, is a program sponsored by the College Board encouraging all students to pass algebra and geometry before graduating from high school. Its goal is to have a larger percentage of minorities enroll in and successfully complete college.

The Maryland School Performance Program is a drive to get all school systems in the state to meet or exceed state standards in a number of areas in student performance, including Maryland Functional Tests, Maryland Criterion Reference Tests (CRTs), the number of students with enough requirements to enter college or a skilled vocation, attendance, reduced drop-out rate, and post-secondary plans and decisions.

New Principal Comes To St. Hugh's School

St. Hugh's school will open on September 3 for all pupils except first graders who will be tested during the first week. School will be on half day session Tuesday and Wednesday and uniforms will be optional those days. Classes on Thursday and Friday will be held all day.

Kindergarten is full but there are still openings in other grades. Philip Robey from Kensington will start his first year as principal. There will also be new teachers in kindergarten, second and seventh grades.

Proposed District 2

Proposed District 5

The above plan of the Governor's Redistricting Advisory Committee shows the proposed new Maryland Congressional Districts. Greenbelt lies within the proposed District 5 which would include parts of Prince Georges, Howard and Anne Arundel Counties and all of Charles, Calvert and St. Mary's Counties.

County Embraces Recycling Campaign

More than 265,000 pounds of paper and aluminum cans were collected and recycled by Prince Georges County employees during the fiscal year ending June 1991. It would have cost more than $6,640 to landfill these materials which the County had recycled for free. In addition, this campaign has saved more than 2,240 trees and 37,000 gallons of fuel oil.

"Our employees have shown that recycling in the workplace does work, and I commend them for their environmental awareness. The County's in-house Office Paper Recycling Program is a model which businesses should look to when they wonder whether recycling can work for them," said Prince Georges County Executive Parris N. Glendening, who uses the recycling container next to his desk daily.

For more information, call the Office of Recycling at (301) 925-5963.

Letters to the Editor

First Parkland

Inspired by Mr. Rosenzweig's letter to the editor, I congratulate and thank Leonie Penney and various Greenbelt preservationist groups. It is a continuing and difficult job they do for the benefit of all our citizens. Mrs. Penney would appreciate a further bit of Greenbelt parkland preservation history, as she was a part of it.

The first permanent Greenbelt parkland donated to the city was land belonging to the original Woodland Hills Association members, led by its first president, Tony Madden, and officers Mike Burchick and Jim Cassels.

As a part of the original layout of Woodland Hills Community, the members voted to donate to the city parkland on Crescent Road across from the fire department and St. Hugh's and land which is now dubiously named "Lakewood-Northway Valley Stream Park."

As far back as the late 1950's, there were custom built homes on Lakeside Dr. But Woodland Hills was the first community housing development outside of GHI built in Greenbelt.

To their credit and pioneering community spirit, this outstanding group of homeowners had the incredible foresight to protect Greenbelt from "commercialization of Crescent Road" at the expense of their own pocket-books.

So yes! Mr. Rosenzweig, as we encourage and praise today's preservationists, it does us well to remember the foresight and the "put your money where your mouth is" action of our pioneer preservationists

THANKS

Thank you Dorothy Lauber for your very kind remarks. Myrna and I love Greenbelt. I have dedicated a song titled "Welcome to Greenbelt." Come all and join us in singing it at the talent show Saturday at 5:45 p.m. Thanks again, Dorothy.

No FRP Here!

I read with great interest Pat Scully's article in the August 22 edition and the account of the last GEAC meeting, held on August 1.

When I got to the part regarding the fire-retardant plywood (FRP) matter, I was somewhat alarmed that you had identified the development of Greenbrook Estates along with Greenbrook Village and Windsor Green as being susceptible to the problems with this plywood. It has always been my understanding that single-family homes, which constitute entirely Greenbrook Estates, were not constructed with the FRP, but that townhouses, where adjoining roofs are common, were usually built with roofing materials consisting of FRP. Ever since this issue has come to the surface nearly two years ago, I have constantly looked into the possibility that FRP might have been used in Greenbrook Estates and, each time, I have been given assurances that the 109 homes in our development were not constructed with this plywood.

I would appreciate your correcting this reference to Greenbrook Estates in your article, before I have a hoard of disgruntled homeowners clamoring up my front steps.

So Civilized

I have taken the opportunity to test the new stop signs at Crescent and Gardenway from every angle, in every sort of traffic, and by every mode of transportation that I normally use. I have found that the delay of a stop on Crescent is infinitesimally short, the waits on Gardenway are much shorter than before and the ambience of a life-preserving situation is present in every case. It seems so civilized to stop there now; so much like Greenbelt: I even stop at this intersection when on my bicycle. Usually.

Another Response

In response to Mr. Rosenzweig's letter in the August 15 News Review entitled "Sank Our Roots", I would like to say that I have attended all of the recent City Council meetings concerning the proposal to construct a 110 unit high rise on the library parking lot. The fact is that the majority of citizens in attendance who are opposed to providing city-owned land for private development are in fact long time city residents.

However, fortunately all Greenbelt residents have a right to express their views regardless of how long they have lived here.

City Council and GHI Board Discuss Schwan Memorial; Refuse Problems

by Diane Oberg

On August 15 the Greenbelt City Council met with the board of Greenbelt Homes, Inc. (GHI) to discuss refuse issues and GHI's proposal for a memorial to former city councilmember and GHI boardmember Charles F. Schwan.

Schwan Memorial

GHI recently asked council to consider three possible memorials to the late Charles F. Schwan, Jr. GHI President Wayne Williams said that GHI felt that since Schwan's influence extended far beyond GHI, he should have a citywide memorial. GHI had suggested a tax-exempt foundation, naming the Community Center for Schwan or renaming Hamilton Place.

Although the councilmembers expressed support for the idea of a foundation, they were skeptical that it could be made to work. Past city attempts to establish a foundation were unable to generate interest among citizens or local businesses.

The group discussed establishing more specific goals and projects for a Schwan foundation. Instead of a vague grab bag of projects, Williams suggested a scholarship fund for an Eleanor Roosevelt High School student.

Council also discussed several options for naming something in the city for Schwan. In the end, no decisions were reached. Mayor pro tem Thomas X. White suggested that a GHI committee and the city's Community Relations Advisory Board further explore the options.

Rubble Site

GHI Director of Technical Services Jay Freedman showed a videotape outlining GHI's plans for clearing a rubble site located north of the trailer/storage area. The county has found that the site violates grading regulations. Freedman said that the county is not requiring GHI to remove the rubble and tree stumps but demands that GHI cover the material with clean dirt and re-grade the area. City approval is required for a small area of city land that would be disturbed under the preferred grading plan.

Freedman said that a 2.5 foot berm will be created along the City/GHI property line, keeping most GHI water from running off onto city property. Although no trees will be removed for the berm, some may die from having so much dirt piled around their trunks. Following the grading, GHI will reforest the area.

If the city refuses to allow regrading of its property, Freedman said, GHI will proceed with work on its own property. He noted, however, that the entire site, including the city's portion, has been cited by the county. Freedman did not know how the county would react if the city property is not brought into compliance.

Recycling

Council had little sympathy for GHI's complaint that the county had broken its promise to pick up recyclables from within members' trash closets, rather than from out of the yard. Several councilmembers noted that residents throughout the city have the large yellow containers in their yards all day and that, if anything, GHI members had more convenient service than other residents.

The GHI board members were also concerned about comments by county officials that the door-to-door pickup is a one-year test and that the cost of this extra service will be reevaluated at the end of the test. GHI President Wayne Williams charged that the county had not tried to negotiate a good price for this service from Waste Management, Inc., and that by agreeing to an unreasonably high price, had guaranteed that the GHI collection would be too expensive to maintain without charging the city extra. Williams argued that it is actually cheaper to collect recyclables from GHI's clustered units than from other areas of the city.

Sheldon Goldberg asked whether the entire city would pay for GHI to receive a higher level of service than the rest of the city. GHI board member Donald Comis doubted that GHI would ask other citizens to subsidize its collection.

Crescent Road Safety

Williams said that GHI was concerned about the overall safety of Crescent Road, especially for pedestrians. He said that the newly installed stop signs at Crescent and Gardenway are not adequate. Councilmember Edward Putens urged examination of lighting, traffic control devices, landscaping, visibility, crosswalks and trucks.

Councilmember Antoinette M. Bram saw a need to educate residents about the inner walkways and other aspects of pedestrian safety. She said that accidents are not always the driver's fault and that pedestrians in the city are "very casual."

The city staff will draft proposals on possible improvements to Crescent Road.

Festival Will Feature 15K & 3K Fun Run

The D.C. Road Runners Club will be conducting the annual 15 kilometer running race as part of the Labor Day Festival Weekend on Sunday, Sept. 1, at 6 p.m. This is about the 29th time this race has been run.

The 9.3 mile race will be conducted over a certified course through Greenbelt and the Beltsville Agricultural Research Center. A 3 kilometer (1.8 mile) fun run around the lake will start at 6:10 p.m. with the 15 kilometer race starting at 6 p.m. Both races start and finish on Braden Field path near the tennis courts.

Last year's male winner was Robert Rodriguez of Arlington in 54 minutes and 17 seconds, over 77 other runners. The last runner finished in 1 hour and 58 minutes. Win Graves of Alexandria won the women's section of the 15K in 62:35. All Greenbelt runners who finish the 15K will receive an award. There is a small entry fee for both races.

Photo Contest Open To Local Artisans

All artists in the mid-Atlantic region are invited to enter the "ALTERED IMAGES - Photography Exhibition" juried competition. Original work produced by the artist's manipulation of the photographic process and completed within the past two years will be accepted. Six hundred dollars in awards will be made by juror Angela Adams, Exhibition Coordinator at the National Museum of Women in the Arts. No fee is required to enter. Application deadline is Oct. 4.

For prospectus call the Arts Division (301) 864-2929.

The "ALTERED IMAGES - Photography Exhibition" is a program of the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission, Arts Division.

Our Neighbors

by Linda Savaryn 474-5285

Valerie Siegel of Maplewood Ct. reports that her father, Carl Rose of Green Ridge House, is recovering from a fractured hip. Following a two-week stay at Doctor's Hospital Rose was transferred to Manor Care in Largo where he will remain at least through September.

Former Greenbelter Margaret Amberg received the "Teacher of the Year Award" from the Kettlemorain School District in Dousman, WI, where she teaches kindergarten. Two years ago she was named "Teacher of the Year" by the teacher's union. Presently her name has been placed in the running for "State Teacher of the Year."

Margaret graduated from Center School and High Point High School, then went on to the University of Wisconsin at Madison where she earned her BA, and at Milwaukee, earning her MA.

Jane and Douglas Love and Bob Auerbach attended the annual national gathering of The Greens at Elkins, W.Va. last week. Numerous workshops were held on a large variety of topics, with ecology and electoral action dominating. A national political party was formed.

Bob and Sharon Alfaro will be returning from Colorado this week after spending their summer vacation there. They look forward to seeing all their old friends at the Labor Day Festival.

Sharon's son, Jim Woodworth of Boise, Idaho, vacationed with the Alfaro's this summer in Colorado, where he and his finance, Camille Waters, decided to marry "on the spot" at American Basin, with wild flowers, snow and family present.

Daughter Theresa, a 1982 ER HS graduate, graduated from the University of Maryland in 1989 with a B.S. in accounting. She recently took the CPA exam in May for the first time and passed all parts of it. Theresa lives in Wheaton with her daughter, Katherine.

It's a boy for Valerie and John Barnett of Greentree Place. John Ryan was born July 17 and tipped the scales at 8 lb. 1 oz. He joins sisters Nicole, age 13, and Sarah, age 9. Maternal grandparents are Magdalene and Charles Fuchs of Lakeside.

Former Greenbelter James Lushine is the lead weather forecaster for the National Weather Service in Miami. There he has extensively researched rip tides and, as a result, can predict when a rip tide is approaching shore. Now the weather bureau may be including Jim's research in their forecasts.

Jim has also devised a color or numbered system to be used on beaches where no lifeguard is present so that swimmers can be alerted of an approaching rip tide. Rip tides account for 10 drownings every year on Florida beaches, and have accounted for 154 drownings last year in the U.S.

Nathan Jones, a member of Hope Lutheran Church in College Park, is one of the first 28 graduates of Evergreen Youth Television project, launched at Pacific Lutheran University, Tacoma, WA.

With a Christian perspective, the students videotaped interviews and news stories at locations around Puget Sound. Subjects included the environment, AIDS, peacemaking, sexuality, and addiction. The Evergreen Youth Television Team is expected to air on "Good Morning America" (ABC-TV) September 30.

Musical Offerings of Arts Center To Expand During Current Season

by Sandy Smith

Quality performances in a variety of musical styles is the goal of the 1991-92 music series of the Greenbelt Arts Center, according to Tom Renahan, music committee chair and executive producer of the series. Working with committee members Sid Kastner, Konrad Herling, Ron Kramer, and Ken Voigt, Renahan has innovative ideas for this year's music series as well as bringing back past popular performances.

The first-ever Greenbelt Jazz Festival will take place next April, featuring top jazz groups, including the popular Buck Hill group, the centerpiece of the Greenbelt day concert. Producer Ron Kramer plans a day-long event which will draw jazz lovers not only from Greenbelt but throughout the area to hear some of the finest jazz groups.

Greenbelt Day's concert will feature a different style with one of the county's noted brass quintets. The Greenbelt Day Concert, always an outdoor event, draws a large crowd vocal in its enjoyment of the music.

Taking cues from the well-received performances in last year's "Evening with Friends," the Arts Center plans a "Second Evening with Friends." The concert will showcase talented Greenbelt performers, perhaps reprising some popular acts from last year and certainly including newly-discovered talents, according to producer Konrad Herling.

The lead-off performance this year may well be a concert premiere in Greenbelt. The music committee hopes to bring the Heritage Singers, a 12-member male chorus to the city. The resident chorus at Harmony Hall, the Heritage Singers are known throughout the area for their sweeping repertoire, including Broadway show tunes, spirituals, sea chanteys, and high-fashioned harmonies.

Renahan has worked with other county arts groups to identify the best talents in the Washington area. He hopes to expand cooperative endeavors so that arts groups can build their knowledge of performing groups and expand the types of performances available to audiences. Renahan's committee plans a special concert for Green Ridge residents. Greenbelter Jan Turkiewicz, noted violinist, will be the featured performer to entertain Green Ridge residents, their families and friends.

Performance Locations

The Greenbelt Arts Center holds its productions in locations throughout the community, depending upon availability and requirements. Musical performances have been held in Greenbriar, Springhill Lake, Center School, the Youth Center, the municipal pool, and Mishkan Torah. "Nuts" and "Twelve Angry Women," two courtroom-based dramas, were well-staged in the Greenbelt City Council Chambers. Recently several plays have been performed in the theater at Capitol College. Only a few minutes up the parkway from Greenbelt, Capitol College has provided a fine location for audiences who enjoy the good acoustics and comfortable setting. It has proved a difficult location, however, for the actors and technical staff who must carry props, design very portable scenery, and rehearse and practice in different locations than where the actual performances are given. Far more choices in types of productions, more complex and detailed artistic endeavors, and performances of greater variety and artistic merit can be achieved in the hoped-for permanent production facility. The proposed "black box" theater of the community center would offer space for permanent storage of props and costumes; a regular site for auditions, rehearsals and performances; and the flexibility to stage a wide array of productions. A planning group is developing plans for the design and use of the "black box" theater.

Volunteers

Fann Kash, charter Arts Center member and former treasurer, has assumed a new role as coordinator of volunteers. She will be seeking help in theater management from ticket takers to ushers, looking for those to plan and stage fund-raising and community activities; and fielding calls from those who may wish to assume the artistic and technical roles in the many scheduled and planned productions. For example, still needed are a facilities coordinator, who arranges for space for the various aspects of each production; technical directors who oversee all technical aspects; artistic directors responsible for casting and the artistic thrust of the show and rehearsals; and show producers who coordinate and manage all facets of a production. For more information or to volunteer, contact Kash at 474-6677. Membership is in the hands of Pat Horsman, who is recruiting new members of the Arts Center and working to strengthen communication among current members. "The Marquee" is a regular newsletter of the Arts Center, sent to all members, which previews upcoming performances and activities.

Seafood Festival Offers Music, Too

The 25th Annual Maryland Seafood Festival will be held on Sept. 6, 7 and 8 at Sandy Point State Park, from noon until 8:30 p.m. Friday's center-stage entertainment includes performances by Roy Battle and the Altones at 4:30 p.m. and Uptown at 6 p.m. Highlighting the list of musical groups on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. is Seldom Scene, one of the nation's best-known bluegrass bands. John Hartford continues on stage at 4 p.m. and Jonathan Edwards at 5:30 p.m. Rounding out the musical entertainment is the Coasters at 3 p.m. on Sunday.

Tickets at the gate. Call 269-5981 for info.

School's Open

tendance of every child between the ages of six and 16. Those who will be five before January 1, 1992 may attend kindergarten. Parents of students new to the school system who have not pre-registered should bring their child's birth certificate, proof of residence in Prince Georges County (deed, rental contract), record of immunization and the child's last report card if entering first grade or above.

Extra-Curricular Activities

Students will still need to have a 2.0 or better grade average in order to participate in sports or activities; averages will be computed each quarter.

Lunch Costs

Lunch for elementary school children will cost $1.35 this year; reduced price lunches will be 20c. Milk will be 35c. Lunch for middle and high schoolers will be $1.40. Breakfast in elementary schools will be 90c, in middle and high schools, $1.15; reduced cost breakfasts, 10c.

Children will be bringing home information about reduced cost lunches on the first day of school. Parents who think they qualify for these should contact their child's school.

Expulsion Policy

Strict standards will continue to be upheld for drug, alcohol and weapons (including knives) abuse. Students need to be aware that none of these may be brought to school at any time, and that expulsion will result should this rule be broken. According to the Code of Student Conduct, students will be expelled for the first offense involving the use of or possession of weapons. For incidents involving drugs or alcohol the students will be expelled for the first offense involving distribution and the second offense involving possession. Most of these students are not eligible for admission to the Prince Georges County school system. Students who are readmitted must remain expelled for at least the remainder of the semester in which the incident occurred and the following full semester. They must also present documentation of satisfactory participation in the alcohol/drug treatment program.

Policy on Medication

The Department of Health Services within the Prince Georges County Public Schools, acting on a recommendation from the state of Maryland, has changed school policy regarding the dispensing of prescription and nonprescription medicines to students.

No medicine's will be given to students without a physician's medication authorization form PS-51 or PS-51-EPIPEN. Forms are available at all schools.

Parents are asked to inform the school principal, health services staff, and the classroom teacher of any known allergy or serious health problem their child(ren) may have. Every effort will be made to protect all students from injury and to provide a healthful environment.

Students will be transported by ambulance to the nearest medical facility should he/she require any emergency treatment that cannot be provided at the school site. Parents will be notified as soon as possible.

For additional information, call 952-6375, 336-5584 or 567-4700.

Festival

al dramatic dedication. Jennifer will lip sync to "I've Got You Babe." Shireen will perform a lyrical jazz dance, while Shannon will draw upon her cheer-leading talent. Apryl's performance features sign language dance and Rosalie will give her rendition of "Voices that Care." Cheryl will add a note of the athletic with a rollerskating act and Samantha will perform a tap dance. Sunday evening, Miss Greenbelt for 1991 will be selected and crowned.

Carnival

The carnival starts and ends the Labor Day Festival. Booths and rides will be in operation from the evening of Friday, August 30 through Labor Day afternoon. Tickets for rides can be purchased from the kiosks located in the carnival area. In locations all around Greenbelt, carnival goers can pick up advance discount coupons for carnival rides on Saturday and Sunday afternoon. Discount coupons are available at High's, Greenbelt Library, Generous Joe's, Co-op, Recreation Department, Greenbelt Pool, GHI, Municipal Building, Springhill Lake Fountain Lodge and Recreation Center, Windsor Green and Greenbriar Community Buildings, Drug Emporium, Greenbelt Liquors, and Cipriano Liquors.

Community Relations and Information

This year's 18 exhibits will create the largest-ever display of area organizations and businesses in the Community Exhibits and Information area. Many new groups are exhibiting this year, including the latest entry — College Park Area Bicycle coalition. Check the yellow tents adjacent to the carnival area for the community displays on Saturday afternoon. Saturday from 10 to 3, the Greenbelt Girl Scouts will hold a bake sale in Roosevelt Mall, with a variety of types of brownies and other baked goodies for sale.

Both Saturday and Sunday the Prince Georges Board of Elections will be at the festival to register Greenbelt voters. This is the first year voters must be registered with the county to vote in Greenbelt elections. The Greenbelt City Council election will be held this November.

Donations and Support

Greenbelt businesses, organizations and citizens again responded to the Labor Day Festival's appeal for cash donations and other support. A Labor Day Festival brochure prepared by Alan Schultz and designed by Sasha Gillespie described how the festival is almost entirely dependent on the Greenbelt Community to fund the entertainment, parade and other major aspects of the festival. It was the major method of informing the community about the festival and how it could be supported. In addition, the city of Greenbelt offers its support in the form of essential assistance from the Police, Public Works, and Recreation Departments and other city staff. A full list of supporters will appear in the News Review in late September.
